MISSION STATEMENT

The Society of Parrot Breeders & Exhibitors is established as an international organization to encourage its members to strive for excellence in captive breeding programs, to educate aviculturists in the proper management and improved care of all Psittacine birds, and to exhibit parrots to professional established show standards judged by qualified certified panel judges.

AFFILIATION

SPBE welcomes affiliates in the organization who receive journal listings for their upcoming event and the opportunity to purchase SPBE Awards for their shows.

EXHIBITION

Show Standards have been developed as a guide to breed and exhibit parrots in order to improve the offspring of successive generations. SPBE offers affiliates the opportunity to purchase a variety of show packages, and access to qualified certified panel judges, show classifications and other show administrative materials to help its affiliates hold their event.

BREEDING & CONSERVATION

The Society of Parrot Breeders & Exhibitors involves and encourages all parrot enthusiasts, conservationists, aviculturists, companion bird owners and show exhibitors to work together for the future welfare of parrots and in their interest by those who keep them. The Breeding Academy, Find-A-Mate Program, Hall of Fame, and Exhibitor Merit Award Programs are described on the SPBE website, and all work towards these efforts are contained within the SPBE Member’s Handbook. The Parrot Preservation Program encourages members to work with at least three pairs of a species and keep at least one baby per hatch for the future. SPBE encourages closed banding of all babies that are produced to protect their identity and safeguard their future.
